

© R. Arnold, UNHCR

There are no easy answers in shelter. But, are you asking the right questions?

Managing the implementation of shelter programmes is a fundamental part of any humanitarian response. Even if managers and coordinators are not responsible for the technical delivery of a programme, they need to identify the scope of shelter programming and understand the standards used in order to make informed decisions.

Who should attend?

This workshop is aimed at:

- Generalist managers who are responsible for programmes that include shelter
- Decision makers within donor organisations that fund shelter projects
- Experienced built environment professionals looking to move into the humanitarian sector

It may also be suitable for managers/coordinators and other personnel with humanitarian experience looking to further their understanding of the issues of shelter in emergencies.

What does the course cover?

The workshop will provide an overview of the shelter sector, identifying the breadth of issues in the sector, including principles and common practices.

This is a participatory workshop, and it is envisaged that a range of organisations will be present providing various points of reference and experiences.

The workshop will explore and address:

- The fundamentals of shelter programming and links with other sectors
- The current challenges facing the shelter sector
- The main standards and protocols that affect shelter programmes
- The types of issues affecting shelter managers
- Different organisational models for running shelter programmes.

Training by the humanitarian sector, for the humanitarian sector.

© Bill Flinn, RedR

"Excellent, good combination of speakers and content."

"Very interesting and informative sessions."

Shelter Essentials course participants

Where and when is the course and how much does it cost?

The workshop will run 9am-5pm on 11 February 2010 in Vauxhall, London. Fees are banded and start from £95. The fee includes all training materials, refreshments and lunch.

How do I apply?

Application forms and further course details on this and all our other training opportunities are available:

- from our website at www.redr.org.uk
- through emailing the training team at training@redr.org.uk
- by calling on +44 (0) 207 840 6000